

BIBLIOGRAPHY FOR STAPHYLININI GENUS-GROUP NAME CATALOG

A. F. Newton, Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago, Illinois, 60605, USA; anewton@fieldmuseum.org
22 February 2008

Note: This list of references includes all publications in which new genus-group names of taxa now placed in the staphylinid tribe Staphylinini were described through the above date. It is extracted from a larger database bibliography covering all names of the beetle group Staphyliniformia; for this reason, some year suffixes may not make sense in the context of this list.

Documentation of the underlying database catalogs and bibliography of Staphyliniformia, including conventions and descriptions of each field, is provided on the web site "PEET - Austral Staphylinidae" under Databases, at: http://www.fieldmuseum.org/peet_staph/db.html Original sources of data about references are given there, and will be provided in more detail including individual acknowledgments with the web version of the Staphyliniformia catalogs and bibliography to be placed on the same site in 2008.

RefNo (Reference Number) is a unique number for each publication used to unambiguously associate a name in database catalogs of species-group, genus-group and family-group names of Staphyliniformia with the corresponding original publication. It is more reliable for this purpose than the combination of author + year + suffix. It is the same number used in the "PEET - Austral Staphylinidae" databases mentioned above.

NYear (Nominal Year) is the nominal year of publication, or journal volume year, when different from the actual year of publication according to other data in the publication or elsewhere.

All references below have been seen by A. Newton except those marked [not seen]. Copies of those publications (or the most relevant parts of them), as well as any corrections or additions to this list, are very welcome!
